- The Customer acknowledges that the Subscription Agreement does not confer any ownership rights whatsoever in the Documents and Services.
- The Customer acknowledges that copyright subsists in the Documents. The Documents incorporate both visible and invisible watermarks. In particular, and without limitation, the following restrictions are to be observed by the Customer and the Customer shall ensure they are equally observed by the Authorised Users:
 - Each Authorised User may only print one hard copy of any of the Documents. These copies may not be used to build up a hard copy reference collection that exceeds 5% of the number of Documents within the BSOL Package subscribed to. Such licensed copies must be destroyed on expiry and subsequent non-renewal of the Subscription Agreement.
 - Each Authorised User may only download one single electronic copy of any of the Documents. These copies may not be used to build up an electronic reference collection that exceeds 5% of the number of Documents within the BSOL Package subscribed to. Such downloaded electronic copies must be removed on expiry and subsequent non-renewal of the Subscription Agreement. Documents may not be copied or circulated electronically, including by electronic mail, even for internal use within the licensed Customer site.
 - The Authorised User may copy a maximum of 10% of the content of any of the Documents and paste it to another document for internal use within the licensed Customer site. The copied content in the new document must contain "Copyright BSI Standards Limited © Date (where date is the date of copyrighted material)". Such content is licensed for use only for the duration of the Subscription Agreement. Such copied extracts of the Documents must be deleted from the internal document on expiry and subsequent non-renewal of the Subscription Agreement.
 - BSI may impose whatever security measures it reasonably deems appropriate to ensure compliance with this Subscription Agreement, including covert and overt copy-detection and licence awareness technology and encoding of requestor/user information in printed and electronic formats. Any attempt to circumvent such access restrictions or BSI security measures will be considered a material breach of these Conditions. In addition to any other remedies available to BSI hereunder, at law or in equity, if BSI determines that the Customer has allowed or committed access in violation of these Conditions, then BSI may halt, restrict or limit subscription access or duration to the Services, require additional user registration or authentication information, or charge additional Subscription Fees, for which the Customer will be solely responsible to pay.
 - The Customer may not copy, transfer, sell, licence, lease, give, download, decompile, reverse engineer, disseminate, publish, assign (whether directly or indirectly, by operation of law or otherwise), transmit, scan, publish on a network, or otherwise reproduce, disclose or make available to others or create derivative works from, the Documents or any portion thereof, except as specifically authorised herein. The Customer must not remove any proprietary legends or markings, including copyright notices, electronically encoded information, watermarks, or any BSI markings.
 - To the best of the Customer's knowledge and ability, all copies of the Documents whether electronic or in hardcopy form must be destroyed and deleted if the Service is terminated or cancelled by BSI or the Customer. At its discretion, BSI may require a certificate that such destruction has occurred to the best of the Customer's knowledge and ability. At BSI's discretion and on not less than 7 days' notice, the Customer shall permit BSI or its authorised representative to inspect and take copies of such books and records necessary for the purpose of verifying the Customer's compliance with the terms of this License.
 - BSI provides all the Documents on an "as is" basis. The Documents may be compiled from materials furnished to BSI by outside sources and should be used as a reference source only. BSI does not warrant the completeness or accuracy of the Documents, that the Customer's use of the Services/Documents, including without limitation, that the databases and/or software and Documents, will be uninterrupted or error-free, or that the results obtained will be successful or will satisfy the Customer's requirements
